DEFENSE LOGISTICS AGENCY

Fort Belvoir, Virginia

The Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) is a combat logistics support agency in the United States Department of Defense. The agency manages the global supply chain, providing logistical, acquisition, and technical support for the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and other federal agencies and allied nations. DLB has locations in 48 states and 28 countries to provide support to wherever the United States has a significant military presence.

The agency employs over 26,000 civilians and military personnel through its global network of distribution centers and supporting offices. DLA provides more than $37 billion in goods and services annually to the military services and supports their acquisition of weapons, fuel, repair parts, and other materials and consumables. Through other U.S. federal agencies, DLA also helps provide disaster response and humanitarian relief efforts at home and abroad. The other federal and state government agencies DLA provides support to include the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Department of the Interior, Health and Human Services, Forestry Service, and the Department of Agriculture School Lunch Program.¹
